

BOARD MEMBER RECRUITMENT PROFILE

Since its founding in 1990, the Brooklyn Bar Association Volunteer Lawyers Project (VLP) has provided greater access and assistance to the justice system for Brooklyn's underprivileged communities. Its mission is to ensure that high quality pro bono representation is accessible to those who suffer under the overwhelming burdens of poverty and struggle to have their rights protected and voices heard. Working through the VLP, attorneys from the private bar – recruited, trained and supervised by VLP staff – provide critical pro bono assistance each year to thousands of individuals and families from Brooklyn's poorest neighborhoods, achieving positive results in stabilizing custody, visitation and support obligations, obtaining divorces, addressing end of life issues, assisting with immigration and citizenship applications, obtaining Article 17A guardianship, preventing foreclosure and negotiating loan modifications, and halting or reducing debt collection. Last year, VLP assisted over 16,800 Brooklyn residents on their legal matters and over 780 pro bono volunteers donated 11,272 hours in legal services valued at over 3.8 million dollars.
