STACEY E. KUSHLEFSKY

Pro Bono Counsel

Willkie Farr & Gallagher LLP

Stacey E. Kushlefsky is Pro Bono Counsel at Willkie Farr & Gallagher LLP where she is responsible for overseeing all aspects of the firm's award-winning pro bono program nationwide. Stacey develops pro bono projects in partnership with the firm's clients and cultivates and manages relationships with external pro bono legal services organizations to bring in a wide variety of matters to match the interests of attorneys across the firm. On a day-to-day basis, she supervises active pro bono matters, oversees staffing of pro bono matters, coordinates relevant training sessions for attorneys across the firm, and oversees related marketing efforts and pro bono events in addition to representing pro bono clients in immigration, family law, and other matters.

With increased firmwide participation in pro bono efforts and numerous pro bono victories across various legal practice areas, Stacey's work has contributed to industry recognition and accolades for the firm's pro bono program. Recently, Willkie was honored with the Chambers Diversity & Inclusion: North America 2020 Pro Bono Program of the Year Award, and inclusion on the National Law Journal's 2021 Pro Bono Hot List, which recognizes "law firms that have led the way on access to justice."

In addition to her pro bono responsibilities, Stacey also serves as director of attorney training, where she manages the firm's entire CLE program across the U.S. from programming to compliance.

Stacey received a Bachelor of Business Administration with Distinction from University of Michigan, Ross School of Business in 1988 and a Juris Doctor from New York University School of Law in 1991.
